

Omnium: A Bold New Circus

A Celebration of Diversity

Image of the poster: a large mac computer screen with 3 images coming out of it. Left: an African American ringmaster in a black sparkled top hat. Center: A Bald Brazilian tattooed man in a yellow tank top standing behind a smaller Brazilian man with brown hair and a goatee also in a yellow tank top. The wheels of his chair visible on either side of his legs. Both are flexing their muscles. Right: a blonde woman in a blue jacket atop a brown horse with a blue headdress.

A young man with olive toned skin and dark brown hair holding on with both hands and feet to the inside of a large aluminum ring called a Cyr Wheel spinning courageously.

The Ethiopian contortionist folding her arms then her head around and though her legs.

The a blonde petite woman with 3 white horses on their hind legs facing her as 3 black ones circle around.

Maxim Fomitchev, a bald, caucasian, Deaf funny man in a black bowler hat, black jacket and a mistfit red tie descending stairs and continuing to descend even when on the ground.

Two long red pieces of fabric suspend a woman with long, flowing brown hair, a sparkled white leotard born without legs as she dances in the air.

A man with chocolate brown skin in blue pants with red sparkles holding himself horizontally on a silver pole.

Same young man who did the Cyr wheel is now juggling with two sticks tied with a long string, throwing a light up Chinese yo yo high into the air

A young woman with light brown hair simultaneously spinning 6 hula hoops on the length of her body while being lifted into the air.